competent Land authority, but also to persons – until further notice – who do not meet the above-mentioned requirements. The competent body (e.g. the respective Chamber of Industry and Commerce or Chamber of Crafts) must be heard. In some federal states, the chambers of industry and commerce or other chambers are directly responsible for the revocable award of professional aptitude pursuant to § 30 Abs. 6 BBiG. The recognition of professional aptitude is therefore required by those who want to hire and train, but are not entitled to train. The award does not replace any proof of vocational and work pedagogical knowledge.

Depending on the vocational training, different chambers are responsible. These include in particular:

- the Chamber of Crafts for vocational training in occupations covered by the Crafts Code,
- the Chamber of Industry and Commerce for vocational training in non-craft trades (e.g. occupations in the fields of industry, commerce, banking, insurance, services and industrial-technical occupations),
- the Chamber of Agriculture for vocational training in agricultural and rural home economics occupations,
- the Chamber of Lawyers, Patent Attorneys and

Notaries as well as the Notarial Fund for the vocational training of specialists in the field of administration of justice,

- the chambers of auditors and tax consultants for the vocational training of specialists in the field of auditing and tax consulting,
- the chambers of doctors, dentists, veterinarians and pharmacists for the vocational training of specialists in the health professions.

Further responsibilities, e.g. for bodies under public law as well as for churches and other religious communities, are regulated in the BBiG § 72 to 75.

If there are no chambers for individual occupational areas, the Land law already lays down regulations concerning competence. In addition, chambers may, with the approval of the competent supreme federal or Land authority, agree on a special distribution of tasks among themselves.
