Teaser	For admission or transfer to a special school, a special educational assessment procedure is carried out in advance under the direction of the responsible regional state education authority.
Volltext	Children and young people with special educational needs should attend school in the state of Brandenburg together with other children near their place of residence. Pupils who cannot be adequately supported in joint lessons or whose parents wish them to attend a special school or special class are admitted to a special school that meets their special educational needs at the request of the parents, the school management or the pupil (after the age of 14). The state education authority decides on the appropriate place of learning on the basis of the educational recommendation of the support committee, taking into account the parents' wishes. The regulations of the assessment procedure apply accordingly if the pupil attends or would like to attend an independent special school or if special educational support is to be provided in joint lessons at alternative schools in all areas of special education and in the case of special educational needs in autistic behavior. Special schools focus their educational work on the individual support needs of pupils. In accordance with the recommendations for special educational support laid down by the Standing Conference of the Ministers of Education and Cultural Affairs of the Länder in the Federal Republic of Germany (KMK), the schools are divided into special educational focuses:

- Learning
- Language
- Emotional and social development
- Intellectual development
- Hearing
- "Physical and motor development"
- vision"
- Schools for the sick

Schools with a special educational focus on "intellectual development" are all-day schools and are divided into learning levels. Schools with a special educational focus on "learning" can cover grades 1 to 10 and are geared towards the special needs of pupils with significant learning disabilities. Both types of school each have their own course of education leading to graduation from the respective type of school. Schools with a special educational focus on "language" and "emotional and social development" cover grades 1 to 6 and generally follow the same course of education as elementary school. They are designed to enable pupils to make the transition to mainstream school as early as possible. Children with a special educational focus on "language" can also be taught in special classes in years 1 and 2, which are attached to elementary school, under special circumstances. Schools with a special educational focus on "hearing" (Wilhelm-von-Türk-Schule in Potsdam) and "sight" (Brandenburgische Schule für Blinde und Sehbehinderte in Königs Wusterhausen) cover grades 1 to 10 and offer primary and secondary school courses. Pupils with a special educational focus on "physical and motor development" who cannot be supported in joint lessons or whose parents wish them
