Erforderliche Unterlagen	Which forms must be completed for the specific project and which additional documents must be submitted is determined in a binding manner by the approval authority. This can be done in a preliminary meeting. As a rule, plans, flow diagrams and descriptions/explanations of measures and operating methods must be attached to the permit application.
Voraussetzungen
Kosten	A fee is charged for the decision on a permit application in accordance with tariff item 2.1.1 of the Fee Schedule (GebOMUGV).
Verfahrensablauf	You apply to the competent authority for approval of the significant changes. You can submit the application electronically or in writing. Enclose the documents required to assess the matter with the application. Once the application and the complete documentation have been received, the competent authority will check whether the changes meet the requirements under immission control law and other requirements. Depending on whether or not public participation is required, the authority will decide on your application within 3 or 7 months of receiving all the necessary documents. After final assessment by the competent authority, you will receive the decision in the form of a notification.

Bearbeitungsdauer	A decision on the permit application must be made within six months of receipt of the application and the complete documents to be submitted. If the project developer applies for a simplified procedure and the project has no adverse effects on the protected interests of the Federal Immission Control Act, a decision must be made within a period of three months.
