Teaser	The conversion of land previously not used for forestry into areas planted with forest trees constitutes afforestation. This requires a permit.
Volltext	The afforestation (change in terminology since the new version of Art. 16 of the Bavarian Forest Act on January 1, 2025; previously: initial afforestation) of land not previously used for forestry with forest trees by sowing or planting is subject to permission in accordance with Art. 16 Para. 1 of the Bavarian Forest Act (BayWaldG). The lower forestry authority, the Office for Food, Agriculture and Forestry (AELF), decides on the permit in agreement with the district administrative authority. The afforestation permit may only be refused or restricted by conditions if, for example • Landscape plans of the municipalities conflict with this, • essential interests of regional culture or nature conservation and landscape management are jeopardized, • the recreational value of the landscape is impaired, • significant disadvantages for surrounding properties are to be expected or • an environmental impact assessment is required and has not yet been carried out. The forestry authority may prohibit planned or already implemented afforestation that conflicts with one of
