Teaser	Persons who were deprived of their liberty in the former GDR in a manner incompatible with the fundamental principles of a free constitutional order can apply for capital compensation and a special allowance.
Volltext	Persons who were deprived of their liberty in the former GDR in a manner incompatible with the fundamental principles of a free constitutional order shall receive capital compensation of EUR 306.78 for each commenced calendar month of deprivation of liberty. Compensation payments made on the basis of the same facts under other statutory provisions, in particular under the Prisoner Assistance Act, shall be offset against this capital compensation. Persons entitled to capital compensation also receive a special monthly allowance (SED victim's pension, SED victim's pension) if they were deprived of their liberty for at least 90 days in the former GDR in violation of the fundamental principles of a free constitutional order and there are no grounds for exclusion. The deprivation of liberty contrary to the rule of law must be proven by a court rehabilitation certificate and/or a certificate in accordance with Section 10 (4) of the Prisoner Assistance Act. The monthly special allowance currently amounts to EUR 330 Payment will be made from the month following receipt of the application. Eligible persons receive the benefit for life if the income requirements are met. The entitlement to SED victim's pension is non-seizable, non-transferable and non-inheritable (e.g. to spouses
