Volltext	With the personal budget as a form of benefit, equal participation and self-determination for people with disabilities can become a reality. The personal budget entitles people with disabilities to receive cash or vouchers to finance the necessary assistance instead of the usual benefits in kind and to put together the necessary service package according to their own ideas. The rehabilitation providers, the care insurance funds and the inclusion offices are involved in the implementation of the personal budget in accordance with the individually determined needs. If several service providers are involved, the personal budget is granted as a complex service across all providers. In addition to the benefits for participation, the necessary benefits from the health insurance funds and long-term care insurance funds, benefits from the accident insurance providers in the event of a need for long-term care and benefits from social welfare

Verfahrensablauf

- You must first submit an informal application. The application is always voluntary. A single rehab application is sufficient to initiate a comprehensive review and decision-making process for the personal budget, even if another service provider is responsible.
- The services that can be provided in the form of the personal budget are then discussed with the applicant. If necessary, representatives of the service providers concerned will be involved. The person with a disability can bring along a person they trust. The applicant and the service provider then conclude a target agreement in which the result is recorded.
- The person with disabilities will then receive a decision containing the details of the personal budget. If they do not agree with the determination of the
