Teaser	You can apply for an advance on maintenance payments if you are a single parent and the parent liable to pay maintenance does not pay any or too little maintenance for the child.
Volltext	You can apply for an advance on maintenance payments for your child if the other parent does not pay maintenance for the child, pays less than the advance on maintenance payments or pays irregularly and if you raise the child in your household predominantly without the other parent. The child's main place of residence must be in your household. You have not (re)married. The benefit is also payable if the other parent is deceased. If the eligibility requirements are met, the maintenance advance will be paid to you until your child reaches the age of majority. The amount of the maintenance advance depends on the age of the children and since January 1, 2025 has been a maximum of <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • for children aged 0 to 5 up to 227 euros, • up to 299 euros for children aged 6 to 11, • up to 394 euros for children aged 12 to 17. Together with child benefit (since 1.1.2025: €255/month), the benefit covers the child's minimum maintenance. The Free State of Bavaria reclaims maintenance from the other parent in the amount of the advance payment, provided that the requirements under maintenance law are met.

Voraussetzungen

The child

- receives no, little or only irregular maintenance from the other parent or orphan's benefits that are below the amount of the maintenance advance,
- lives in Germany,
- lives with a parent who is single, widowed, divorced or permanently separated.

Special additional requirements apply to children aged twelve and over. They are only entitled if

Sachverhalt

- the child does not receive benefits in accordance with the German Social Security Code II (Bürgergeld) or
- the child's need for assistance can be avoided through the maintenance advance or
- the parent caring for the child has an income of at least €600.

There is therefore no entitlement in the following cases, for example:

- Both parents live together in the same household or the child is significantly co-cared for by the other parent.
 - The parent with whom the child lives has remarried.
 - The child lives in a home or in full-time care.
 - The mother, who is not married to the father, does not cooperate in establishing paternity and his whereabouts.
- Cooperation also includes the mother making every reasonable effort to find the father as soon as the pregnancy is established.

Children with foreign nationality are entitled to an advance on maintenance payments under certain conditions.

Certain income is offset against the maintenance advance, in particular

- maintenance payments received
- orphan's benefits
- for children who no longer attend a general school, their own income.
