Teaser	In Germany, criminal responsibility ("criminal responsibility") begins at the age of 14. If young people become delinquent, youth welfare services provide support in criminal proceedings and youth court assistance.
Volltext	If young people between the ages of 14 and 21 come into conflict with the law, they and their parents can turn to the youth court assistance service. Participation in proceedings under the German Juvenile Courts Act in accordance with Section 52 SGB VIII ("Youth Court Assistance" or "Youth Assistance in Criminal Proceedings") is one of the statutory duties of the Youth Welfare Office. Youth court assistance is involved in the entire course of the youth court proceedings. It accompanies young offenders and supports the juvenile courts and the juvenile public prosecutor's office by providing reports, opinions and decision-making aids. The personal life situation of the young person is at the forefront of all considerations. The various tasks of juvenile court assistance include in particular • Information and advice on the course of juvenile court proceedings • possible consequences of the offense • Data protection and protection of confidence • various offers of help in accordance with the Child and Youth Welfare Act, for problems and difficulties in school, work and training, family and housing, leisure time and debts • Reporting to the public prosecutor's office and the
