regular daily working hours.

- Anyone who neither suffers a loss of earnings nor receives compensation for the disadvantages of running a household will receive compensation for lost time of 4 euros per hour, unless it is clear that the witness has suffered no disadvantage as a result of being called in.

- Compensation is generally paid for a maximum of 10 hours per day.

- A time-related daily allowance if the appointment takes place neither at the place of residence nor at the place of work of the witness.

- An overnight allowance if an overnight stay away from home is necessary.

- Other expenses, insofar as they are necessary. These may include, for example, the costs of necessary deputies or necessary accompanying persons.

If a witness incurs considerable expenses, an appropriate advance will be granted upon application.
