Teaser	You can have the equivalence of foreign (non-academic) agricultural vocational training with a comparable German occupation (e.g. farmer, animal farmer, gardener, housekeeper) confirmed.
Volltext	In the area of agricultural training professions (non-regulated professions), the recognition certificates - unlike in the area of regulated professions - are not a prerequisite for permission to practice the profession, but primarily a "transparency instrument". A certificate of recognition makes it easier for employers to assess foreign qualifications and thus improves the labor market opportunities of those qualified abroad. The determination of equivalence gives the applicant the same rights and obligations as the holder of the comparable German qualification. The detailed presentation of the existing qualifications and significant differences helps skilled workers to apply for jobs on the labor market or to obtain further qualifications in a targeted manner and then, if necessary, to seek a new procedure to determine equivalence.

The proof must be submitted in the original or as a certified copy. If the document is in a non-German language, it must be accompanied by a translation certified by a state-certified or publicly appointed and sworn interpreter or translator.

The evidence must be submitted in the original or as a certified copy. In the case of all documents in non-German, translations certified by a state-certified or publicly appointed and sworn interpreter or translator must be enclosed.

- Proof of relevant professional experience (e.g. employer's reference, work book)

The proof must be submitted in the original or as a certified copy. In the case of documents in a non-German language, a translation confirmed by a state-certified or publicly appointed and sworn interpreter or translator must be enclosed.

- Proof that gainful employment is to be pursued in Germany (e.g. application for an entry visa for gainful employment, contacting potential employers, business concept in the case of self-employment).

This proof requirement does not apply to nationals of the EU/EEA/Switzerland and to persons residing in the EU/EEA/Switzerland.

Voraussetzungen

Any person who has obtained a training qualification abroad and intends to work in Germany can apply for an equivalence assessment procedure.

Proof of training means that the applicant must provide evidence of vocational training completed abroad. Anyone who has not acquired a foreign vocational qualification cannot submit an application; purely informal professional qualifications, e.g. those acquired solely through work experience, are not sufficient. Semi-skilled workers or unskilled workers who do not have a professional qualification from another country are therefore not eligible to apply.
