Teaser	People who suffer damage to their health as a result of a publicly recommended vaccination or a vaccination against the SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus can receive state compensation.
Volltext	Compensation is paid for the health and economic consequences of a vaccination injury. This requires a vaccination complication, i.e. damage to health that goes beyond a normal vaccination reaction. It is necessary that the damage to health and its consequences are likely to be attributable to the vaccination in question. In most cases, the amount of possible benefits depends on the severity of the damage to health caused by the vaccination and the vaccination complication. Eligible persons are entitled, among other things, to medical treatment, a monthly compensation payment if applicable, compensation for occupational disadvantages and supplementary benefits. Surviving dependants may have their own entitlement to a monthly compensation payment. In detail, the following compensation benefits have applied since 01.01.2024 Monthly compensation payment It is granted according to the degree of the consequences of the injury (GdS) regardless of earned income and other income and amounts to between EUR 418 (GdS of 30) and EUR 2,091 (GdS of 100) per month.
