Voraussetzungen

- The project period runs from September 1 of the year in which the project begins to August 31 of the following year.
- During the project period, there must be a BVJ "Neustart" class at the vocational school in accordance with school regulations.
- There must be a labor market policy, social policy or regional requirement. The existence of this requirement must be documented by a statement from the local government responsible for school supervision. In the case of state schools, this requirement is deemed to have been met if the government is involved in setting up the classes.
- A BVJ "Neustart" class can accept young people who are required to attend vocational school and have no training place (JoA) and young adults without a training place with particular personal problems and a lack of vocational or other alternatives. Project participants are selected in close consultation with the schools previously visited and should involve the regional actors of the youth employment agency (usually consisting of the employment agency, job center and youth welfare services). Student acquisition is supplemented by outreach social work.
- At least 8 pupils are required to form the class. A shortfall on the relevant cut-off date (October 20) is not detrimental to support if the government responsible as the school supervisory authority permits a shortfall.
- The BVJ "Neustart" takes place at the vocational school (also vocational school for special educational

The design is based on the specifications of the respective KMS for vocational preparation at general vocational schools and the framework conditions of the cooperative classes for vocational preparation. Within the framework of this concept, the school provides intensive socio-educational support for young people and young adults (including outreach social work and group or class-related activities as part of lessons) in close coordination with the vocational school for at least 24 hours (60 minutes each) per week. For the above-mentioned socio-educational support, the school can deploy its own staff or suitably qualified staff from a third party ("cooperation partner").
