Volltext	An important task of the medical officer is to carry out medical examinations and assessments and to issue reports, certificates and attestations. In many legal regulations, an official medical examination is expressly required. One of the reasons for this is that public officials are distinguished by their particular independence and their special additional expertise in the field of public administration. As a rule, they work on behalf of other authorities or in accordance with their statutory duties. Examples of official medical activities and examinations on behalf of authorities : • Recruitment examinations of applicants for the public service • Determination of the health suitability for the exercise of certain professions • Civil servants' capacity to serve • Ability to work of employees in the public service
