Sachverhalt

Teaser

If you live legally in Hamburg and do not have German citizenship, you usually need an electronic residence permit (eAT) as proof of your residence status.

Volltext

As a person with foreign nationality, you generally need a residence permit to be able to stay legally in Germany. This residence permit is issued as an electronic residence permit (eAT) in credit card format. The electronic residence permit contains your personal details and information about your residence status. This data is also stored on a chip (electronic storage medium). With the electronic residence permit you can use the online ID function on the Internet. The validity of your electronic residence permit depends on the length of your residence status and the validity of your national passport. For permanent residence permits, the electronic residence permit is valid for a maximum of ten years; after that, you will need a new card. If you have lost your electronic residence permit or it has been stolen, you will need to reapply because your passport number is noted on it. If your electronic residence permit is lost or stolen, you should have the online ID function blocked. You can do this at the relevant Customer Center for Foreigners' Affairs or by calling the blocking hotline 116 116, which is available 24 hours a day. From May 1, 2025, there will be new regulations regarding the required photo: From this date, you will no longer be permitted to submit paper-based photos. Instead, you will need an electronic photo. You can create this on-site or bring the QR code provided by a photographer. Further information can be found in the "Links" section.
