Volltext	Environmental zones are intended to reduce pollution and particulate matter in city centers and improve overall air quality. In order to be allowed to drive into the zones, an environmental badge is mandatory. You can apply for or order the environmental badge from the Landesbetrieb Verkehr (LBV). Fine dust stickers are also available in any admissions office or Any body that is authorized to carry out the emissions test (e.g. TÜV, Dekra, GTÜ, KÜS and FSP, vehicle workshops).
Erforderliche Unterlagen	You only need the registration certificate part I (vehicle registration) to prove the pollutant behavior via the key number.
Voraussetzungen	The environmental badge can be issued for vehicles registered in Germany and abroad. The only requirement is that the pollutant behavior of the vehicle can be proven using the code number in field 14.1 in the registration certificate, part I. This information can be found in field 1 of the old vehicle

Hinweise	There is currently no environmental zone in Hamburg. Therefore, you don't need an environmental sticker here, but it may be mandatory for driving to other major cities. An environmental badge can only be issued directly by the LBV as part of a vehicle registration. Subsequent on-site issuance is not possible; in this case, the environmental badge can be ordered from the LBV or purchased from any other location. A new sticker is required if the vehicle is re-registered and the license plate number changes, or if the registered license plate is no longer legible, for example, because the color has faded. The number entered on the sticker must match the license plate number. If you would like to order the environmental sticker from the LBV, please transfer the amount of €7.00 to the LBV account, stating your name and vehicle registration number. You will then receive the environmental sticker by mail within approximately 28 days. Here are the account details: Recipient: State Transport Authority Hamburg IBAN: DE42 2105 0000
