foreign professional qualification and the German professional qualification.

- If your professional qualification is equivalent, your foreign professional qualification will be recognized. The responsible body can confirm the result in writing. You must still meet the other requirements. You will then be permitted to use the professional title "pharmaceutical technical assistant" or "pharmaceutical technical assistant".

- Are there significant differences between your professional qualification and the German professional qualification? Perhaps you can compensate for the differences through your professional experience, other knowledge or skills (lifelong learning). You must provide evidence of your professional experience. Knowledge and skills must be certified by an authority in the state in which you acquired the knowledge or skills.

- However, it may be that the essential differences cannot be compensated for by this knowledge. In this case, the responsible body will tell you the essential differences between your professional qualification and the German professional qualification. It will also tell you why you cannot compensate for these essential differences. The responsible body will also tell you compensatory measures that you can take to compensate for the essential differences. If you decide not to take compensatory measures, your professional qualification will not be recognized. You will then not be allowed to work as a pharmaceutical technical assistant in Germany. There are various compensatory measures:

- Adaptation period: The adaptation period lasts a maximum of 3 years.

- Aptitude test: In the aptitude test, only those areas in which significant differences have been identified are examined. The aptitude test consists of a practical test combined with an interview.

- If you successfully complete the compensatory measure and meet all other requirements, you will be permitted to use the professional title "pharmaceutical technical assistant" or "pharmaceutical technical assistant".
