Hinweise	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The civil wedding has nothing to do with the church wedding. • You do not need witnesses, but you can choose 1 or 2 people to be your witnesses. • When registering for marriage, you can decide which surname you want to use in the marriage. The registry office will advise you on this. • Bigamy marriages are not permitted in Germany. • Your previous marriage must end through death, divorce, or a final court order before you can remarry. • If your marriage was divorced abroad, the divorce may first need to be recognized in Germany. You can find out which countries this applies to through case-specific consultation at the registry office. • A previous civil partnership must also be dissolved. • If your partner's home country doesn't issue a certificate of capacity to marry, consult the registry office. Through the registry office, you can apply for an exemption, which will be decided by the President of the Higher Regional Court. • For documents in another language, the registry office requires a full translation into German. This must be done by a sworn translator in Germany. Foreign documents often also require a legalization (apostille) by an authority.
