You may be entitled to assistance with living expenses in accordance with the Social Code Book XII,

- if you are temporarily unable to work as defined by the pension insurance institution and
- if you do not receive a pension or do not receive a sufficient temporary pension.

Volltext

Benefits to secure a person's livelihood, known as subsistence benefits, are divided between SGB II and SGB XII. Persons capable of work and their dependants receive benefits under SGB II. A person is capable of earning if they can work at least 3 hours a day under the usual conditions of the general labor market. Persons who are temporarily unable to work receive benefits in accordance with SGB XII. The pension insurance provider determines the ability to work.

If the husband/wife or partner receives benefits under SGB II, there is no entitlement to benefits under SGB XII. An application under SGB II must then be submitted to the Jobcenter.

Assistance with living expenses under SGB XII is granted if the necessary means of subsistence cannot be provided or cannot be provided sufficiently from one's own resources and means, in particular income and assets.

From 1.1.2024, the following standard needs levels apply

Standard needs level 1

Adult person who lives in an apartment and for whom standard needs level 2 does not apply: 563 euros

Standard needs level 2
