Teaser	If you want to drive in an environmental zone, you need a fine dust sticker/environmental sticker. You can obtain information here.
Volltext	There are clean air plans for areas with poor air quality. Clean air plans contain measures to improve air quality. Low emission zones are one possible measure in such clean air plans. Low emission zones reduce particulate matter and nitrogen dioxide pollution. Vehicles with high pollutant emissions are not allowed to drive in low emission zones. If you want to drive your vehicle in such an environmental zone, you must purchase a fine dust sticker/environmental sticker. The sticker is available in three different colors, each of which is assigned to a pollutant group. The classification of your vehicle into one of the pollutant groups is based on the emission code numbers. These can be found in the vehicle documents. Note: A separate traffic sign indicates the environmental zones. The additional sign shows the colors of the stickers that allow vehicles to drive freely in the specific environmental zone.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	• Vehicle registration certificate (for older vehicles) or registration certificate part I (for newer vehicles)
Voraussetzungen	To obtain an environmental badge, your vehicle must meet the criteria for pollutant groups 2, 3 or 4. You cannot obtain a sticker for vehicles in pollutant group 1. These are

Sachverhalt

- Petrol vehicles without a regulated catalytic converter and
- older diesel vehicles with emission standard Euro 1 or worse.

The emission class codes of the vehicles according to No. 1 of the old vehicle registration certificate or No. 14.1 of the new registration certificate Part I (ZBI) are decisive for the issue of stickers. If the vehicle has been retrofitted with a particle reduction system, an amendment to the ZBI is required.

You must be resident in Bremerhaven.
