Volltext	In general, identification is compulsory in Germany. Persons in need of care who are unable to participate in public life due to illness or who are being cared for may be exempt from this rule. For this purpose, an informal application must be submitted to the registration office. Care services and carers can also apply for this exemption for their clients.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	if no guardian has been appointed, the signature of the person concerned on the application is sufficient and a trusted person can submit the application • Supervisor's identity card or publicly certified power of attorney if applied for by a supervisor or an authorised representative • previous identity card or passport of the person concerned or a similar institution from which it is clear that the person concerned cannot move about in public on his/her own • Certificate of the hospital, nursing home • if necessary, a certificate
Voraussetzungen	Persons, • who are unable to participate in legal transactions (e.g. because they are bedridden) or • for whom a guardian has been appointed or
