examination on August 1, 2017. The Bremen Parliament enacted the Mortuary Services Act for this purpose. The core elements of the law are the separation between the determination of death in Sections 3 and 5 and the introduction of a qualified post-mortem examination in Section 8. In future, every person who dies in the state of Bremen will undergo a post-mortem examination by a specially qualified post-mortem physician after death has been determined.

A death can therefore only be certified after the qualified post-mortem examination has been carried out.
