Volltext	German documents are often only recognized by the authorities or courts of another country if their authenticity or probative value has been established in a special procedure. A number of procedural rules have been agreed between the states for this purpose. For countries that have acceded to the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents of 5 October 1961, the otherwise required legalization is replaced by the "Hague Apostille". A document bearing such an apostille can be used directly abroad, so that the involvement of the consular officials of the country in which the document is to be used is no longer necessary. The apostille or legalization confirms the authenticity of the signature, the capacity in which the signatory has acted and the authenticity of the seal affixed to the document. Further information on international document traffic and the legalization of documents can be found under "Further information" - "Where can I find out more?" - "Federal Foreign Office". Responsibilities <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Civil status certificates (e.g. marriage or birth certificates) • Residence and registration certificates • Medical certificates that have been pre-certified by the health authority or the medical or dental association • School certificates issued by the Senator for Children and Education • Diploma certificates and university certificates, pre-certified by the Senator for the Environment, Climate and Science • Export certificates that have been pre-certified by the Chamber of Commerce, for example • Income tax returns and certificates of residence pre-certified by the Bremen tax office. • The Senator for the Interior and Sport is responsible

Erforderliche Unterlagen

No documents required.

Voraussetzungen

Only original documents (with the original signatures of the issuers) can be notarized.
 The document must be up to date.
 In particular in the case of civil status documents, registration certificates and residence certificates that are older than 3 months, there is a risk that these will not be recognized in the destination country despite properly issued apostilles/certifications.
 We would like to point out that the older the document, the less probative value it may have.
 The issue of an apostille does not indicate whether the apostilled document will be recognized in legal transactions abroad.
